

Aid2Africa.co.uk
Reg. Charity 1119045

Email: admin@aid2africa.co.uk
Website: www.aid2africa.co.uk

The charity aims to fulfil its objects through sustainable projects wherever possible. Education is a major area where a real difference can be made. Many children, even at primary level are denied access to education because of the need to pay fees. School facilities are often very poor or inadequate. Classrooms are sometimes a room in a teachers' house. It is not unusual for primary children to walk 8 to 14 Km to get to school. (5 to 9 miles)

The basic diet of Sadza and greens (maize porridge and a type of cabbage) contains very little protein. This, combined with a number of years when the rains have failed, has led to a high level of malnutrition, particularly in children.

What Aid2Africa.co.uk is doing NOW in schools in Zimbabwe:

- Keeping children in school by paying their school fees.
- Providing funding for building facilities in schools. E.g. Toilets, piped water, classrooms.
- Providing resources for schools such as toys for pre-school units, text books and other resources to improves the quality of education teachers can provide.

Visit our website at www.aid2africa.co.uk to get a fuller view of the work done so far and plans for the future and how you can get involved.

Peter Wrigley admin@aid2africa.co.uk

Aid2Africa.co.uk
Reg. Charity 1119045

Email: admin@aid2africa.co.uk
Website: www.aid2africa.co.uk

The charity aims to fulfil its objects through sustainable projects wherever possible. Education is a major area where a real difference can be made. Many children, even at primary level are denied access to education because of the need to pay fees. School facilities are often very poor or inadequate. Classrooms are sometimes a room in a teachers' house. It is not unusual for primary children to walk 8 to 14 Km to get to school. (5 to 9 miles)

The basic diet of Sadza and greens (maize porridge and a type of cabbage) contains very little protein. This, combined with a number of years when the rains have failed, has led to a high level of malnutrition, particularly in children.

What Aid2Africa.co.uk is doing NOW in schools in Zimbabwe:

- Keeping children in school by paying their school fees.
- Providing funding for building facilities in schools. E.g. Toilets, piped water, classrooms.
- Providing resources for schools such as toys for pre-school units, text books and other resources to improves the quality of education teachers can provide.

Visit our website at www.aid2africa.co.uk to get a fuller view of the work done so far and plans for the future and how you can get involved.

Peter Wrigley admin@aid2africa.co.uk

Building on success - making a difference

Aid2Africa.co.uk
Reg. Charity 1119045

Email: admin@aid2africa.co.uk
Website: www.aid2africa.co.uk

The charity aims to fulfil its objects through sustainable projects wherever possible. Education is a major area where a real difference can be made. Many children, even at primary level are denied access to education because of the need to pay fees. School facilities are often very poor or inadequate. Classrooms are sometimes a room in a teachers' house. It is not unusual for primary children to walk 8 to 14 Km to get to school. (5 to 9 miles)

The basic diet of Sadza and greens (maize porridge and a type of cabbage) contains very little protein. This, combined with a number of years when the rains have failed, has led to a high level of malnutrition, particularly in children.

What Aid2Africa.co.uk is doing NOW in schools in Zimbabwe:

- Keeping children in school by paying their school fees.
- Providing funding for building facilities in schools. E.g. Toilets, piped water, classrooms.
- Providing resources for schools such as toys for pre-school units, text books and other resources to improves the quality of education teachers can provide

Visit our website at www.aid2africa.co.uk to get a fuller view of the work done so far and plans for the future and how you can get involved.

Peter Wrigley admin@aid2africa.co.uk

Building on success - making a difference

Building on success - making a difference